

Subject: Thank You & Introduction

Hi Dave,

I wanted to thank you for your time and insights during yesterday's session. I truly appreciated the open and engaging conversation; it was an honor to be there. As someone early in their career, it meant a lot to hear your advice and perspective, especially your reminder that we are the future of not only this company but the country, as you mentioned.

Your point that "people will remember how you made them feel" really stuck with me. I also appreciated your emphasis on showing up with eagerness, participating fully, working hard, making sacrifices, and maintaining a positive attitude. Pairing that mindset with the fruits of the Spirit you live by was a powerful message.

What resonated with me most was when you spoke about faith — how there's something inside of us, and how important it is to walk in faith with the right people who believe in you. I know I have a purpose and a higher calling, and hearing that from someone leading the company I've dreamed of working for since I was a kid only confirmed that I'm in the right place.

Since starting full time at WWT a few weeks ago, I've been intentional about joining sessions and seeking opportunities to learn, meet new people, and better understand the company's language and culture... especially as I'll be supporting IML and employee experience work. Yesterday's conversation was one of the most inspiring and insightful experiences I've had so far. It was an honor to learn from someone as hardworking and humble as you.

Thank you again for your time, your words, and your leadership. I left the session more determined than ever to live with purpose, stay humble and curious, and give my best in whatever role I'm in!

Sincerely,

Gabby Hennessy
