Rapidly scale your organization's capacity to keep remote workers secure and productive

Unanticipated events can disrupt your organization's ability to fulfill its needs by requiring large segments of the workforce to work remotely on short notice.

To keep critical operations up and running, organizations must ensure that users can keep working easily and securely. However, most organizations are unprepared to scale their IT capabilities rapidly enough to begin supporting thousands—or hundreds of thousands—of new remote workers in a matter of days or even weeks.

Special offers for existing Webex users

For existing customers with active Webex subscriptions, WWT and Cisco are making it easy to expand your subscription on a temporary basis.

Meetings for universities, colleges and schools

Today's educational environment requires a balance between students that expect to be able to learn anywhere, anytime, on any device with the increasing needs of instructors and administrators that need to innovate faster. And, everyone wants the freedom to collaborate without boundaries.

Classroom Collaboration – Instructors can organize students into project groups in seconds. Students can work together on any device, anywhere they go—on campus or off. Everyone can chat, meet, whiteboard and share files securely.

Distance Learning – Instructors can hold virtual office hours wherever and whenever works best, as well as host outside experts from anywhere to offer guidance and share resources. Students can attend classes remotely in a virtual classroom or watch lecture recordings whenever they choose.

Distance lesson (virtual class) – Instructors and students benefit from the capabilities of Webex Meetings that include real-time collaboration, audio/video, application sharing, multimedia content, annotation and polls. Additionally, students can join a lesson in guest mode without the need to create a Webex account.
